DETERMINED TO PROTECT HOME LABOR

Premier Bennett Refuses to Sacrifice Canadian Workers for Japanese Trade

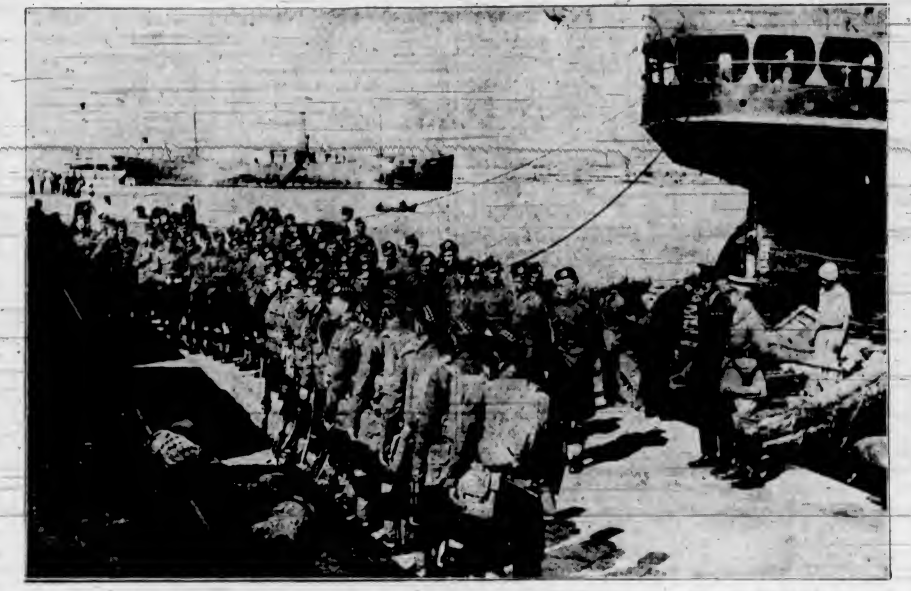

THREATENS TO END COMMERCIAL TREATY

OTTAWA, Sept. 5 (P).—Declaring that the Government of Canada is unable to accept any compromise on the basic principle of fair competition, the Dominion has advised the Japanese Minister that if Japan does not alter its attitude this country will be obliged to give notice that it considers the Anglo-Japanese commercial treaty no longer applicable to Canada.

The announcement was made today by Prime Minister Bennett.

The "unilateral attitude" of the Government of Japan puts directly in issue the right of the Government of Canada to protect the wages of its workers and the standard of living of its people against the unfair competition of low-cost labor paid in greatly depreciated currencies, the Government's letter to the Japanese Minister, signed by the Prime Minister, said.

Mr. Maitland was minister without portfolio in the Tolmie Administration in the Provincial House, and is one of the most forceful speakers in politics. The meeting will be fully open to the public.

Outstanding Pianist Is Given Great Ovation On Appearance Here

Mme. Gertrude Huntly Received With Enthusiasm by Audience at Royal Victoria Theatre Last Night, Sponsored by Beaux-Arts

A FORTNIGHT of high musical anticipation came to delighted fulfillment last evening, when Mme. Gertrude Huntly, Canada's most distinguished woman pianist, reappeared on the local concert platform under the Beaux-Arts auspices after an absence of several years.

Always the idol of her audiences, the last few years, unspiced by her enchanted reputation as a pianist, Mme. Huntly was unaffectedly touched by the enthusiasm of her reception, and also, just as unaffectedly, showed the familiar characteristic desire to please as well as to elevate her audience.

GREAT VIRTUOSO

To many of those who heard her on past occasions, it may seem little to mention some of the finer points of her splendid execution. On the other hand, some members of her audience were undoubtedly hardly prepared to hear such a fine display of virtuosity. This technical equipment is, however, all part of an exquisite aestheticism, which enters into every detail of Mme. Huntly's playing, beginning with the finest beauty of phrasing, pedalling, rhythm, accent and metre, and ending in the real mission for which these things are perfected, namely, interpretation.

A mature and sensitive pianist, her playing has the finest intellectual and emotional appeal, genuine feeling, enabling her to range through a great field of musical expression, and it was an altogether most beautiful, exalted and satisfying evening.

THE PROGRAMME

Always gifted with a flair for programme-building, the pianist last evening showed her customary fine discrimination and good taste.

Observatory Here to Be Represented at Toronto Gathering

Dr. J. A. Pearce to Submit Seven Papers, Prepared by Local Staff, at American Astronomical Society Meeting, September 10-12

Dr. J. A. Pearce, of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Victoria, will attend the meeting of the American Astronomical Society, comprising astronomers from the United States, Canada and Mexico, to be held September 10-12, inclusive, at the newly-opened David Dunlap Observatory at Richmond Hill, twenty miles north of Toronto.

The programme issued indicates a heavy list of papers to be presented in the three-day meeting. Dr. Pearce, who left last evening, will present papers prepared by himself and other members of the observatory staff. The staff has seven papers on the programme out of a total of thirty, a rather worthy showing for one institution. In the case of a couple of the papers, additional material has been secured to corroborate certain results presented at the May meeting of the Royal Society at Hamilton, in the case of the other five papers most of the material has been secured during the past six months and the observations are discussed for the first time.

It was discovered in 1919 to be variable in its radial velocity and a run of observations this summer indicated about thirty days as the period in which the two components of the close physical double were revolving about each other. By connecting up with the three 1919 observations a more definite value of 32.84 days was determined by Dr. Harper for the period of revolution. One of the two components of the star is considerably brighter than the other and hence only one spectrum is recorded. Certain tell-tale lines in it disclose that this brighter component is about fourteen times as bright as our sun. It can then be deduced that the system must be about 200 light-years distant.

The second paper on the list concerns an investigation of the orbital motions within the binary system H.D. 189081, by Dr. J. A. Pearce. This double star system consists of two Class B stars of masses 2.3 and 2.1 times the sun, volumes 90 and 70 times the sun separated by a distance of 600,000 miles. The two stars revolve in an eccentric orbit in a period of 2.85 days. The bodies are not spherical stars like our sun, but elliptical in figure. The elliptical orbits revolve in space analogous to the rotation of the orbit of the moon about the earth in a period of nine years.

The 1935 observations at Victoria, when analysed and compared with the 1910 observations made at the Allegheny Observatory, show that the longest axis of the ellipse, called the line of apses, had advanced 17.5 degrees in the intervening twenty-five years. This indicates a rotation of the ellipse in a period of 525 years. Similar changes have been detected in the orbits of four or five other binary systems under investigation at the observatory.

The third paper on the list is by Dr. C. S. Beale, and represents an attempt to gain new information concerning the rarefied gas which is known to exist in the spaces between the stars. While the interstellar gas probably contains most of the elements known on the earth's surface, only two of these elements, calcium and sodium, have spectrum lines which can be observed by ordinary methods.

Given High Command in East Africa

DUKE OF BERGAMO
Nephew of the King of Italy, and commander of the infantry division "Lage Legnano," has been assigned to a high command in East Africa.

Beale describes a new recording device for a microphotometer. For certain types of measurements dealing with spectral lines it is necessary to have an instrument which will record simultaneously both distances and densities of blackening on a photographic plate. Such an instrument has recently been set up in the physical laboratory of this observatory, and this paper contains a brief description of its working parts.

This instrument has been built by S. S. Gilling in his machine shop in Victoria and in convenience and accuracy has been found to equal or surpass similar instruments made by the best European instrument-making firms.

The fifth paper by Dr. R. M. Petrie concerns the orbits of the component stars of the physical double star Bos 4745. Dr. Petrie was able to establish a periodicity of about ten days. Connecting up observations made in 1928 when he was a student assistant at the observatory with others in 1931 and those of the present year, Dr. Petrie was successful in arriving at a definite value of the period as 9.810 days.

COMPLETES PROBLEM
The sixth paper by Dr. Andrew McKellar is somewhat outside of the regular astronomical work pursued at the observatory, but is a completion of an important problem in physics upon which he was engaged at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology when he accepted the position here last Spring. It concerns the mass ratio of the lithium isotopes.

The last paper on the list contributed from this observatory is a joint one by Messrs. Harper, Pearce and Petrie. It has to do with tests made by the recently-completed microphotometer, described in the fourth paper by Dr. Beale, of the sensitivity of the photographic plates in common use at our own and other observatories. Any increase in the sensitivity of the plate is naturally the equivalent of a corresponding increase in size of the telescope, and plate manufacturers are always anxious to satisfy astronomers whose requirements in this regard are the most exacting of any of the sciences. Plates in commercial use usually follow a few years after their usefulness has been established by the scientists.

The recent test at this observatory, which required a considerable time to carry out, have shown one particular plate put out by the Ilford firm in London, England, that is about three times as fast in the ordinary photographic region as those generally used. Another plate lately introduced by the same firm to cover the green to the red region is about four times as fast as one previously used. This greater sensitivity is naturally accompanied by a slight deterioration of the fineness of the grain, but not sufficient to be serious, and the greater speed of such plates has been conducive to reaching faint stars in this summer's observations.

Added to the increased speed of the newer plates is the fact that the secondary mirror, recently aluminized by the new process, is much more efficient in giving well-exposed spectra in the blue-violet region. It is hoped some time in the near future to aluminize the big seventy-two-inch mirror, and this is being kept in view. The Council of the American Astronomical Society is to consider the feasibility of having a co-operative equipment for aluminizing large mirrors. Dr. Harper, who is on the council, feels that in our isolated position such would not be as serviceable as having one's own equipment for that purpose.

Killed Trying to Remove Handcar

FINCH, Ont., Sept. 5 (C)—John Algrine, fifty-five, was instantly killed, and Oscar McConnell, fifty, seriously injured today when a fast Canadian Pacific passenger train from Montreal to Smiths Falls struck them as they tried to remove a handcar from the train's right-of-way near here. A third man, William MacMillan, forty-five, escaped injury. They were railway employees.

GIVES JAPAN IMPRESSIONS

Rev. Dr. W. J. Sippell Tells Rotarians Why Japanese Are Aggressive People

Japanese are aggressive because of their phenomenal success in wars with Russia and China. They saw other nations colonizing far ends of the earth and watched them progress by forceful rather than peaceful methods, Rev. Dr. W. J. Sippell told members of the Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon, in giving his impressions of a recent tour to the Orient.

Japanese were a law-abiding people with a stable government, intensely patriotic and militaristic in spirit, the speaker declared. On the other hand, China was an incoherent, chaotic and disunited nation with an extremely unstable government. The population was broken up in factions and had no clear ideas as to national policy.

The social unit of Japan was the family, but the state took precedence over the family and the family precedence over the individual. If a family name was disgraced, the individual was expected to immediately leave the country or commit suicide, Dr. Sippell stated. Although a member of a family was not allowed to depart from the religion of the others, missionaries were allowed in the country as long as their teachings did not affect political life.

PRAY FOR EMPEROR
Prayers, in the main, were for blessing to be showered upon the Emperor, who was looked upon as the father of the nation. In this exalted position, the Emperor had been responsible for establishment of schools for those unable to provide business, education, health centres and provision of assistance for distressed persons. Because of this fatherly attitude, Dr. Sippell asserted that unemployment never had exceeded 100,000 in Japan out of a total population in excess of 100,000,000.

Many years ago infant industries were financed and nursed along by the government, with the result that today the most important of them were under government control, the speaker stated. This meant that there were extremely few wealthy men who had made their money at the expense of the working classes. Japan, however, could not be considered the workshop of the Orient, as the British Isles were considered to be the workshop of Europe in the eighteenth century.

BRITISH INFLUENCE
Japan was faced with a struggle to maintain its own Oriental culture, and yet accept many contributions from Western civilization. Dr. Sippell believed, German influence was noticed in the army and British influence in the navy and railway policies. British influence seemed to predominate.

Although the speaker believed there would be no war between North America and Japan, he maintained that Canada could not long remain in the background while history was made in the Orient.

Two little American boys were talking about the President. One of them said: "My father thinks he has done a lot of good."

The other boy replied: "Oh, I don't know; he hasn't closed the schools yet."

Historic Bell Is to Be Installed at Y.M.C.A. Camp

The stately boom-boom of a bell, said to be over the 100-year mark, will toll over the Y.M.C.A. camp next year, summoning the boys from bed, calling them to the cookhouse and finally sending them to bed again. The bell is three feet high and two feet six inches in diameter, and was presented to Vivian Shoemaker, boys' work secretary of the Y.M.C.A., on a recent visit to Vancouver. The bell has tolled over a Chinese mission, the Vancouver Labor Temple and more recently over the Windsor United Church.

The bell, which originally came to this country from China, will be mounted in a specially constructed bell tower.

OUR ANNUAL FAIR

Victoria's annual Fall Fair, one of the oldest institutions of its kind in Canada, will be informally opened to an interested public tomorrow. We might call the Fair an Exhibition, or even an Exposition, but prefer to call it by the simpler, and perhaps to some, less imposing name. A Fair is suggestive of fun, and we believe a majority of people, while they like to be instructed, prefer to have amusement mixed with instruction. The old English fairs were primarily dedicated to merriment.

The agricultural element of the community will be chiefly interested in the display of cattle. Unfortunately, horses have nearly gone out of fashion, after serving their day in another generation of mankind. The race of horses is to the swift, and only the swiftest survive, according to the decrees of nature and the fashions. Visitors to the Fair may see many little and nimble races and graceful saddle horses, but they will not see a great many ponderous Clydesdales, Shires or Percherons. Talk about the pride of race in men. Where did you ever see such pride of race as may be seen in the nobility of all animals decked in ribbons of all colors and prancing in the ring of a Fair grounds?

Going to the Fair is a matter of custom to city people. There is no significance in the annual event, except that it implies a season of enjoyment before the leaves fall, the days become shorter and winter is knocking at the door. The reactions of the country people are different. To those people the significance of the Fair is that the days of toil are over, for the time being; the earth has yielded her annual increase; the harvest has been gathered; the hay has been stacked; the grain is in the bin, and the fruit is on display and on its way to market. The Fair may be both profitable and instructive to the agriculturist, the horticulturist and the dairyman. The Fair may be only a source of entertainment to the city dweller. It serves a double purpose for the countryman and his helper.

Other cities have their shows, and shows is the proper term to apply to them. Toronto people are gloating over the big show they have had, and pointing with pride to the great increase in the paid sight-seers. Vancouver people are doing the same thing. They say the popularity of their shows and the large increase in the attendance are sure indications that the business depression has passed and that good times have come around the corner. If the present state of the weather holds, we shall be in a position to say the same thing about the Victoria Fair at the end of next week. We are told that the entries are greater than ever, and that the quality of the exhibits is better than ever.

Everybody should go to the Fair in the spirit which the people of the Old Land used to go to their fairs and the younger generation will go to our Fair. A Fair is a carnival to boys and girls. Circuses are a rarity here, but there is the atmosphere of the big tents on the midway; there is the smell of the sawdust and the aroma of the hot dog, so appealing to the nostrils of youth, but so fatal to the digestion of the adult. Banish dull care for a week and enjoy life at the Fair.

CAN THRIFT SHORTEN THE DEPRESSION?

An American politician, formerly a citrus fruit rancher, copper miner, and bank director in turn, Lewis W. Douglas by name, spent two years trying to carry out the policy of the Roosevelt Administration as Director of the Budget of the United States. Recently it became clear that his policy and that of the President had reached the crossroads, and he resigned. He is now writing a series of articles in The Atlantic Monthly to prove the thesis that the credit of every citizen is directly dependent upon the credit of the country as a whole, and that the credit of the country as a whole can only be maintained if the country's books balance. The arguments of Mr. Douglas are derived from American experience and directed towards American public affairs, but the principles of sound finance are universal, post-local.

A few years ago thrift was generally, indeed almost universally, held to be a good thing, a virtuous thing, a social duty as well as a personal one. Recently, and more particularly during the depression, there has been a good deal of random talk about the value of free spending, and it has even been stated that spending is really a more virtuous practice than saving. Not only have doubts been cast upon the old-fashioned virtue of thrift, but thrifty people have been described as self-seeking, anti-social, unpatriotic. So popular has this new theory become in certain quarters that those who try to live within their income have been regarded as slackers in the fight against the depression, or at best dull and stupid people who cannot see beyond their own noses. For, as the "argument" in favor of free spending runs, "if everyone would spend a little more money, more goods would have to be produced, and to produce the additional goods more people must be employed; and moreover, they say, money which might be spent to stimulate production and decrease unemployment becomes perfectly sterile and dead if it is merely hoarded. This "reasoning" was thought by many to be so convincing and indeed unanswerable that such terms as skinflint, pinch penny, and tightwad, epithets which were formerly reserved for the avicious, the penurious, and the miserly, were now, under the influence of the popular spendthrift doctrine, applied freely to anyone who tried to live within his income by the practice of a decent frugality.

The confident advocates of the free-spending theory, when they are asked what becomes of the savings of the thrifty, seem to take it for granted that such savings are not put to productive use, but are merely hoarded. This, however, is quite contrary to the facts. Savers do not put their savings into an old sock or into a miser's secret strong box. They invest these savings directly in some promising enterprise or lend them to the banks for profitable investment. Accordingly savings go into immediate circulation. In this investing his savings does the saver do anything towards decreasing unemployment? Undoubtedly he does, and he does so far more effectively by so investing them than if he were to spend them for consumption goods. It is as certain as anything can be in this uncertain world, that buildings, machines, tools, railways, ships, the capital goods of industry and commerce, do not last forever, but have to be replaced. This cannot be done unless somebody saves for the purpose.

In the Atlantic article mentioned above figures are given to show that while the consumption of goods of the sort purchased by individuals has been relatively constant during the depression, there has been a decline of almost 65 per cent in the consumption of capital goods, that is to say, of such "durable" goods as machinery, building material, etc. Ordinarily, it is stated, the value of the capital goods produced annually is approximately equal to that of the goods consumed by individuals, and hence the significance of the 65 per cent decline in the output of capital goods. With these figures before us it is easy to understand why, since times became bad, employment in the capital goods industries declined more than 50 per cent, whereas the decline in employment in industries making goods for individual consumption was only 16 per cent. Clearly, both national and personal financial policy should be directed towards increasing the production of capital or durable goods. It is in that region that unemployment is greatest.

Where is the money to come from which is to purchase capital or durable goods like steel, construction materials, machinery, tools, equipment? It will be available only if individuals are willing to save and actually do save. It is to the small savings of millions of individuals that industry turns when it requires funds to finance the purchase of capital goods. These savings are deposited in many modest accounts in the banks.

Savings, in the opinion of The Atlantic essayist, are thus the greatest employment power in the economic world. Thrift is still a virtue, and the need for a constant supply of savings is clearly seen in the following facts: An increase in the supply of durable goods may be due to the development of new industries, or to the expansion of old ones; but a highly important factor in the demand for such goods is the factor of replacement, a factor whose importance will be better appreciated when it is realized that in few industries do machinery and equipment last as long as ten years without becoming obsolete and in many industries they last only four or five years.

HAVE MERCY ON THE EDITOR

Writing letters to the editor of The Times has inspired many a test at the expense of mythical or actual reputations. Writing letters to the editor of The Colonist appears to have become the settled occupation of a considerable proportion of the people of British Columbia. There are readers of the paper who complain about the number of letters printed; but we have heard it said that public opinion on all subjects should be given ample opportunities for expression; that expression is like a safety valve on a high-pressure steam boiler; if allowed to blow off passion, it prevents an explosion.

In this matter we are trying to serve, but the difficulty for us is that in some individuals writing letters to the editor becomes an obsession, and that so many of the letters written deal with the same subjects. We have read so many letters lately on the subject of Social Credit that the wheels in our head are whirling like mad, and we have been reduced to that condition called dizzy. When readers of the paper are reduced to such a state of mind as that they can stop reading, as the listener-in can shut off the radio. We can not do that without incurring the censure of printers and proof-readers.

The issue of Social Credit is of no direct interest to the people of British Columbia at the present time. It may become of special interest to us all after the issue has been triumphant in the Province of Alberta and the credulous people of that Province have begun to draw their monthly dividends. The only local interest we can see in it is that it seems to furnish an excuse for profound economists to assail bankers and point with extremeunction to the fulfillment of money. There is an old saying that "money talks." No one can say that the bankers talk. Possibly the bankers are all like the bankers of high degree who confessed that they knew nothing about money. They may believe that the people who have had the least to do with money, such as ministers of the Gospel and mere newspaper men, know most about it. One Social Credit advocate writes to us saying that the banks create money. Another tells us that the banks do not create money, that they merely create credit by writing some figures in a ledger.

Thus, money must be a drug on the market, but it is still being bought and sold in all the countries of the world. In social affairs, when a subject becomes a bore it can be changed; such a rule cannot be adopted in our business without incurring the risk of being charged with intolerance.

Not a Bad Idea

As the Provincial Police have an enviable record on Vancouver Island, wouldn't it be fitting to tear down the ancient drill hall at its headquarters here and erect a new building?—N.A.C.M.

Spell It Please

In these days of perfection in radio reception it is a puzzling thing to a layman that reception over the common or garden telephone should still be so far from perfect. The accuracy of the automatic connections is a marvel, but the average telephone conversation contains an irritatingly large percentage of repetitions and requests for elucidation. And yet the cost of telephone service is about as much a month as radio costs a year.—R.L.P.

Only the Barber Profited

Political reputations as well as political consciences express themselves in various ways. A few days ago, seeing for the first time a picture of the newly-faced Rev. J. S. Woods, worthily be expected to enter shortly upon the pastorate of one of the Congregational churches there. Dr. Thompson came from Los Angeles about fourteen months ago to take the City Temple pulpit, shortly after the resignation of Dr. Clem Davies. He has proven himself a preacher of exceptional ability, who has been in demand for services in other pulpits than his own. He has identified himself heartily with the members of the ministerial group of the city, among whom he has made many friends.

Try Feeding the Hornets

Offered a trifle late in the season, perhaps, but a friend of ours has explained how he succeeds in distracting the attention of the troublesome hornets from his picnic parties. He is an ardent picnicer with a whole-hearted dislike for "yellow-jackets." By accident he found that a bit of meat placed on the ground would keep the troublesome insects away from the lunch spread. By the time he had repeated the process every time he has been lunching outdoors since that time and he is no longer troubled by hornets.—H.C.M.

Ye Ancient Pile

A new city hall has been advocated for Victoria, but the City Council has not yet decided to force upon them some day if the building in which they meet continues to show further signs of deterioration. One of the main walls is beginning to crack from the top downwards. Incidentally the wall forms one side of the City Council chamber, and one wonders whether the cracking may not have been caused by an over-abundance of air conditioning expansion of the bricks, which now threaten to tumble about the ears of those who have postponed the date for a new edifice.—P.C.R.

Heritage Worth While

They (British foreigners) have given us in the new nations of the Empire your love of freedom; your faith in democratic institutions and the fortitude to hold fast to these priceless heritages; reverence for law and justice and orderly progress; cherished regard for the liberty of the individual and the rights of the minority; a love of sport; a sense of humor; the desire to do a good job; regard for honesty, decency and the spiritual things of life." Mr. Speaker, the Hon. H. G. Perry, M.P., in a recent address at the Lord Mayor's banquet, London.—S.G.

Why Not Bite It?

We heard a man say over the radio yesterday that there were three kinds of men—chronic grumblers, argumentative bickers and constructive fault-finders. Then there was the British M.P. who declared that he suspected this legislation gentleman. I smell a rat. I see it floating in the air. And by the flood of England's valiant dead, I intend to nip it in the bud. I suspect that instead of a Victoria arboreal tree to Captain Vancouver's grave, wouldn't it be a wonderful idea if the famous navigator's remains could be brought for interment to the Island he named—O.B.

Team Will Be Missed

Garrison, always a dangerous contender in the Wednesday Football League, will be missed this season when the mid-week loop opens play for the Hayward Cup. Members of the Wednesday Football League for many seasons, the Army has brought out some good players, many of whom have caught places on local all-star teams. JACK Casey, Center, centre forward of the New West, minor-league footballer, learned his football at Royal Point Barracks and later became one of the best scorers in British Columbia soccer circles.—S.T.

time baseball's greatest idol. The Bambino played only a little over two months in the National League, and when he retired from the game this season officials of the organization tendered Ruth a pass to all games on the circuit, which is good as long as he lives. Take the other angle. As everybody knows, the "Babe" called for twenty seasons in the American League, and when he left the Yankees for the National League, the big bosses never even thought of giving him a pass. True, Ruth was a star, but why shouldn't the American League give him a lifetime ticket. He built half the parks and saved the game, especially the American League, after that 1919 scandal in the world series by his home-run clouting.—J.D.

Rev. Dr. W. J. Thompson, After Years Ministry at City Temple, Returning to California

Rev. W. J. Thompson, D.D., with Mrs. Thompson and their daughter, Emma Alexander, for California, where he expects to enter shortly upon the pastorate of one of the Congregational churches there. Dr. Thompson came from Los Angeles about fourteen months ago to take the City Temple pulpit, shortly after the resignation of Dr. Clem Davies. He has proven himself a preacher of exceptional ability, who has been in demand for services in other pulpits than his own. He has identified himself heartily with the members of the ministerial group of the city, among whom he has made many friends.

ETHIOPIA MAKES RENEWED APPEAL

Foreign Commissioner Litvinoff. Litvinoff declared Russia desired to maintain the present friendly relations with Italy. But with regret he was disconcerted himself entirely from the speech of Baron Aloisi yesterday.

UNACCEPTABLE POSITION

The purpose of the Italian appeal was to declare that the council should declare itself disinterested in the threatened conflict between Italy and Ethiopia, and that it should sanction freedom of action by Italy. That position Litvinoff said he could not accept.

Called to Colors

ROME, Sept. 5 (AP).—On the heels of a report from Geneva that Italian delegates had withdrawn from the League of Nations' Council meeting the War Ministry called to the colors tonight approximately 50,000 youths of the class of 1912 previously exempted from military service.

Italy Will Wait

Italy will wait for the League of Nations to act before her troops enter Ethiopia, persons close to Premier Mussolini said today.

It began, they said, does not want to begin war until the League has definitely disposed of the Abyssinian controversy, regardless of the fact that whatever that disposition may be, Italy does not propose to back down.

Rushed to Frontiers

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 5 (AP).—More troops were rushed to the frontiers today, as Emperor Haile Selassie issued new decrees to restrain verbal and written attacks upon Premier Mussolini and Italy.

The Emperor ordered Kidane Miriam Taki, editor of The Amharic Language Publication, "voice of Ethiopia," arrested for using violent language against Italy.

A restrained attitude toward Rome was demanded by Haile Selassie. He ordered all publications to refer to Italy politely as "Mr. Mussolini," and never to attack him or Italy.

able time for hostilities to begin if war cannot be averted—is anticipated this month. The Associated Press correspondent at Jijiga, Northern Ethiopia, reported that heavy rains are continuing. Such roads as exist are waterlogged wherever the Italians would have to advance.

There is a strong undercurrent of feeling among natives against Europeans, the correspondent advised, but authorities are prepared to prevent serious manifestations. Fearing a sudden Italian attack, women and children of the Jijiga district are evacuating.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP).—With reports current here that Premier Mussolini might play host to a new three-power conference on the Italian-Ethiopian conflict, Prime Minister Baldwin conferred with seven other Cabinet ministers today on Great Britain's position in the East African crisis.

His vacation at Aix-les-Bains, France, at an end, Mr. Baldwin was consulted tonight with Sir Samuel Hoare, Foreign Secretary, who has been confined to his home with an attack of gout.

WOULD ADD PRESTIGE

It was regarded probable here that Mussolini would welcome the opportunity for a three-power conference on Italian soil, which would add immeasurably to Italy's prestige, and perhaps would be viewed by Il Duce as a diplomatic victory.

Important enough to compensate him for frustration of his desire for armed conquest of Ethiopia.

If such a conference were to be called, it was said here, the Italian Premier would preside and proposals rejected by Baron Pompeo Aloisi, his emissary to the recent Paris sessions, would be presented again and more fully explained by France and Great Britain.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE TEST OF STOICISM

It takes a stoic nature to bear the fate that sends poor cards—but it takes more than stoicism to withstand the slings of an outrageous fortune that provides good cards with which disaster is inevitable. No one likes an unpleasant loser, but when a hand is bid to his logical contract and by no amount of skill can that contract be made, the unfortunate player is entitled to a squeak—and seek the sympathy of his opponents. In fact, if for one would be in favor of a special bonus of 100 points to be awarded to one side on any hand which even the opponents agree is really a stroke of evil fortune.

The hand below is one which would surely qualify.

Holiday Declared By Mayor Leeming During Fair Week

Wednesday Will Be Citizens' Day at Willows—
More Than 15,000 Entries Received, Setting
New Record—Tour of Grounds Made

WEDNESDAY afternoon, September 11, was declared a public holiday for all stores, offices and schools by Mayor David Leeming when he, in company with members of the council yesterday concluded a tour of the Willows exhibition grounds, which now present a scene of activity as exhibitors prepare for the fair which starts at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

"I am indeed gratified with the splendid condition of the grounds and the buildings, and was certainly pleased to hear that all entry records had again been broken for the fourth consecutive time," the Mayor stated at the close of his tour.

DECLARES HOLIDAY
"I want to see every citizen visit the fair and have set aside Wednesday afternoon as Citizens' Day so that everyone will be afforded an opportunity of seeing the exhibition," he asserted.

W. H. Meares, secretary of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, accompanied the party over the grounds, and Aldermen T. W. Hawkins, Andrew McGavin, Walter Laney and Dr. J. D. Hunter on the work that had been accomplished.

Newspaper Executive Visiting Victoria

JOHN M. IMRIE

VICE-PRESIDENT and managing director of The Edmonton Daily Journal, reported business conditions generally were somewhat better in Alberta, on his arrival at the Empress Hotel yesterday. He declined, however, to comment on the recent provincial election. Business in Vancouver brought Mr. Imrie to the Coast and was enticed to the Island for a few days by the "lure of Victoria," he explained laughingly.

DEPARTMENT OF BIOLOGY IS ARRANGING

Hall of Science at Willows
Covers Comprehensive
Field of Subjects

MANY SPECIMENS
TO BE DISPLAYED

So comprehensive is the field of science covered by those responsible for the Hall of Science at the Willows Fair, that to give a complete picture of it is practically impossible without a personal inspection.

The biological exhibit, alone, constitutes the assemblage of a wide variety of subjects, and several student-captives will be in charge of this division.

The biological exhibit is designed to give people a general idea of the whole field of the subject, stressing particularly the gradual development of life from the very simplest forms up to the higher types of living creatures.

BACTERIAL SPECIMENS
It starts with a number of bacterial specimens, showing the way such organisms as the T.B. organism forms from artificial foods.

Several charts show the forms of the various types of bacteria. To give an idea of their minuteness, Staphylococcus aureus, a germ which continuously causes boils, pimples and abscesses, is one two-thousandths of an inch in diameter. In other words, it would require 4,000,000 of these germs to cover one sq. cm. one layer thick. A layer of this thickness, of course, would be invisible to the naked eye.

Then several slides of the various one-celled germs are shown through the micro-projector. This is an apparatus consisting of a microscope and a very powerful lantern arranged to give a very clear image of the microscopic slide on a screen. These simple germs, just visible to the naked eye, are found principally in pond water and the sea. It is from one of this type that some scientific men believe that higher forms of life have since evolved.

ANIMAL VOLVOX
Another interesting form shown under the micro-projector is the animal Volvox, an animal in which the individual cells have become closely connected by a jelly-like net-work into a hollow sphere like a

Somalis Reported to Have Deserted

Reports from Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, state that more than 12,000 Somalis, chiefly troops equipped with rifles and machine guns, have deserted the Italian forces and skipped across the border to fight for Ethiopia. Picture above shows a regiment of Somalis training under Italian officers.

B.C. MINING COUNTS GAIN

Increase in Gold, Silver and Lead Expected in $44,-
'000,000 Output

BRITISH Columbia mineral and metal production for 1935 is expected to reach $44,000,000, according to estimates prepared by the British Columbia Department of Mines. Of this figure, gold is expected to make the all-time record of $12,250,000, an increase of $1,300,000 over production last year.

Silver production, up in volume and value, is expected to top last year's figures by $1,500,000, while lead output may exceed the 1934 totals by between $500,000 and $800,000. It is believed, zinc and copper are both expected to show recessions, due to the price factor in world markets on the one hand, and the closing of one large copper property on the other.

A BETTER YEAR
Mineral production in British Columbia last year was worth $42,000,000. A net gain of better than $2,000,000 is being confidently expected this year, after the absorption of losses in two of the base metal groups. With higher gold and silver prices than during last year, mine dividends will be up.

Interesting in respect to Canada's position among gold producing countries of the world is the fact recently recorded by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that per capita production of gold in Canada has risen from $3.86 in 1925 to $9.45 in 1934, a tremendous expansion.

Last year Canada produced $18,000,000 in gold in excess of capital requirements on maturing foreign obligations, and exported nearly $100,000,000 in the precious metal.

Ontario Premier Will Speak Here On Tuesday Next

PREMIER Mitchell Hepburn, of Ontario, will address a Victoria audience for the first time—when he takes the platform at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at a public rally under the auspices of the Victoria Liberal Association. C. J. McDowell, Liberal candidate here, and Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate in the Nanaimo Federal riding, will be heard on the same program, with Byron Johnson, M.P.P. in the chair. The meeting will be broadcast.

RUSH TO PAY TAXES HERE

Property Holders Line Up
All Day—Refunds to Prepaid Participants

Although the final date for paying current taxes is less than a month away, the rush to make final payments before the 1 per cent penalty comes into effect has started much earlier than last year, the city collector's staff announced yesterday. For the past three days there has been a steady line-up of property holders waiting at the cashiers' cages to pay their bills, and two cashiers have been maintained at the counter throughout the day. This early start is taken as an encouraging sign and it is expected that tax receipts will show a higher percentage than last year.

Collections will not be so great by virtue of the fact that the city levied for $65,000 less, which is equivalent to about a mill and a half in the rate. However, the reduction in taxes was distributed in the lowering of assessments last year when the 1935 assessment rolls were made.

Prepayment of taxes have ceased and some 500 property holders will receive a refund, as this number overpaid their tax bills. The refunds will go out next month and total approximately $2,400.

Dr. F. M. Bryant, illustrious Pontate of the Shrine, will speak a few words of welcome, and as many Shriners as possible are asked to attend. T. H. Ellek will be master of ceremonies.

CLAIMS MONEY CONVICT HELD

Mrs. D. Sloan Puts Forward
Right to Small Amount
Found on F. Stevens

Complications have arisen over the disposition of the estate of Frank Stevens, who after a long career of crime on the Coast, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary a few days ago by Police Magistrate Jay on charges of having victimized five business men by passing forged cheques.

It was expected that there would be little trouble in dividing the $15.43 which was found in the possession of the convicted man, among the five victims of his operations, the criminal code providing the means for so doing. There has, however, arisen a new claimant for this amount.

Mrs. David Sloan purports to have a first claim upon this particular sum.

EAR-MARKED MONEY
C. L. Harrison, in the police court yesterday, called attention to this fact, stating that the allegation was made that this particular sum was "tucked away" and due to her, and that it formed no part of the spoils that came to the convicted man from his forger operations. This latter money, it was stated by Mr. Harrison, was claimed to have been all dissipated.

Mrs. Sloan was not able to be in court yesterday, but Mrs. Louis Vanhersee was present—and said that she was authorized by Mrs. Sloan to represent the latter in taking over the money referred to.

The other claimants for their shares in the money remaining in possession of Stevens were present, representing losses through the forgeries of something around $75. On the suggestion of Mr. Harrison, the matter was allowed to stand until Mrs. Sloan could appear and testify as to her rights to the money as against that of the victims of the forgeries.

Looking well after three months at Banff Hotel, T. C. Whelan has returned to his position as assistant manager of the Empress Hotel.

He reported business had been good, the popular Summer hotel—Mr. Whelan added with a smile, however, that he was pleased to be back in Victoria.

Thomas Rathe, who filled Mr. Whelan's place while he was at Banff, has left with his wife and young son for Regina, where he will again assume his duties as assistant manager at the Saskatchewan Hotel.

Monday's marketing can use more gasoline than Sunday's long trip

Starting, Shifting and Accelerating waste money if your gasoline hasn't these 3 Different Kinds of Power

4 out of every 5 miles
you drive are stop-and-go

IT'S the short trips... to the grocer's, the meat market, the drug store, the bank, the department store... that eat up your gasoline!

This is easy to figure out when you consider that one "cold" start can use up a "mile" of gasoline... and that rapid accelerating can use 33% more gasoline than just rolling along on a straightaway!

To save money on today's around-town stop-and-go driving, you don't want a gasoline that merely STARTS quickly... or one that merely PULLS easily on hills or in shifting gears... or one that merely gives good MILEAGE on long runs!

You need a gasoline that does ALL THREE of these jobs. In short, you need a BALANCED gasoline!

Shell engineers now offer you the FIRST gasoline of this type... the FIRST gasoline made for today's stop-and-go driving.

Super-Shell has won such popularity that there are 30,000 neighborly Shell stations spread from Coast to Coast. Fill up your tank with Super-Shell TODAY and see for yourself how it can save you money.

Produced at Shellburn, B. C.

SAVES GASOLINE IN 3 WAYS

STARTING—This balanced Super-Shell can save up to a cupful of gasoline on every "cold" start. Even on sizzling summer days, your engine is relatively "cold" after it has started running.

PULLING—It can save up to a cupful of gasoline in 10 minutes of rapid accelerating or hill climbing. And you avoid that knocking which alone in a few minutes can waste 10% of your power.

RUNNING—Super-Shell can save up to a cupful, motorists report, in an hour on the long stretch—thus saving on long runs as well as on short trips.

Remember, when you save 16 cupfuls, you save a gallon!

WILL PROTECT HOME WORKERS

that there had been no essential change in the attitude of the Government of Japan in respect to the measures which the Government of Canada had been obliged to take to protect Canadian workers.

PERSISTS IN DEMAND
The Government of Japan had persisted in demanding a privileged position in the markets of Canada which would involve fair discrimination by Canada against the other members of the British Commonwealth of Nations and against foreign countries to which Canada had extended most-favored-nation terms by treaty.

The Japanese Government, said the note, had failed to recognize in any way the very substantial concession accorded to imports from Japan by reduction of the exchange compensation duty, which made full allowance for the extent to which the competitive advantage arising from the depreciation of Japanese exchange had been offset by the relative increase in the price level in Japan.

The Canadian Government greatly regretted the course upon which it had resolved and hoped the Government of Japan might be persuaded of the justice of the position taken by Canada.

John A. Rowland Finds Spirit of West Unchanged

John A. Rowland, K.C., Toronto, general manager of the Canadian Permanent Trust Company, spent yesterday in Victoria on his first Western inspection trip since he was appointed to his present post last July. He arrived here with members of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, who spent the day in the city and returned to the Mainland on the midnight boat.

The spirit of the West Mr. Rowland found to be the same as ever. He would not comment on the political outlook in Alberta. Admitted to the British Columbia bar in 1904, Mr. Rowland later went East and for years was a prominent member of the Ontario bar. Before his appointment as general manager, he was a director of the trust company.

TERMINATES BRIDGE PACT

Revenue Contract Halted by Province With Three Years' Notice

Supporting recent ministerial announcements, the British Columbia Government yesterday authorized Hon. A. M. Gray to send formal notice on one of three railways using the present Fraser River bridge, that running rights would be rescinded in three years' time under an agreement renewed by the Province in 1930.

The Province's notice in this case will go to the Canadian Northern Railway Company, one of the three users of the bridge who pay an aggregate of $7,000 per annum to the British Columbia Treasury for existing rights on the bridge.

TO REMOVE BRIDGE
Three years' notice was explained as necessary to terminate the agreement. At the end of that time the present free bridge is to be removed in place of the new toll structure expected to be in operation then.

The Cabinet also approved of the action taken a month ago by Premier Pattullo, as Minister of Railways, in permitting the Eastern British Columbia Railway Company to suspend freight and passenger operations for a year on a line between McGillivray and Corbin.

TABLE BOWKER CREEK PROJECT

No Work in Area Until After Conference of Municipal Officials

Any contemplated alleviation of flood conditions in the Bowker Creek area, which is to be shelved until a joint meeting of Sanjich, Victoria and Oak Bay representatives is held, the Sanjich Council was informed last night.

Municipal Engineer H. H. Allen presented a lengthy report on the Sanjich, which showed for little cost certain ditches could be widened, thus enabling the water to flow more freely.

A small auxiliary culvert crossing the Highway 101, north of the Sanjich, Hill road, would be of solution to flood conditions in the extreme Sanjich end of Bowker Creek.

However, the larger project of completely repairing the existing drainage system could not be carried out without co-operation from the Oak Bay and Victoria authorities, Mr. Allen reported.

Accordingly, the matter was tabled by the council.

TAX SALE SHOWS HIGHER RETURNS

Sanjich tax sale will conclude today, but so far, returns have indicated a total of $110,000, while returns so far have been $5,954. In 1934, 520 lots valued at $24,240 were offered for sale. Sixty-two were sold in 1934, bringing a return of $3,847.

How to have a "Happy" Stomach

Are you sick and tired of having a stomach that acts up—that doesn't take kindly to good, wholesome food? Then bring your stomach to time. Don't take drugs. They are dangerous and habit-forming. Just follow the Andrews' Rules of Health. Eat moderately. Sleep plenty. Exercise regularly. Breathe the fresh air you can. And keep yourself in healthy condition with a purifying, energizing glass of Andrews' Liver Salt taken about twice each week while it is still deliciously bubbling.

This last rule is quite as important as all the others. What Andrews does is to first rid the body of the old, stale, sluggish blood. It soothes the digestive organs and strengthens the whole process of digestion and waste elimination.

Don't let your stomach bog you down. Learn to enjoy a sound digestive system and good, hearty meals by following the Andrews' Rules. You will feel better—much better and healthier—from the day you begin. Get Andrews' Liver Salt from your druggist. In tins, 35c and 65c. Extra large bottle, 75c. Sole Agents: McGillivray Bros. Limited, Toronto.

Visitor Impressed by Loyalty of Britishers

Mrs. Curtis Sampson Gives Impressions of Visit to England at Meeting of Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E.

"No people in the world can cheer like the British," such is the opinion of Mrs. Curtis Sampson, who recently returned from England, and was the speaker at yesterday's meeting of Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E. Mrs. Sampson visited the Continent while she was away. She was particularly struck by the loyalty of their subjects towards their Majesties the King and Queen, as expressed in the cheers which were continuous during the six-mile stretch of the line of parade during the Silver Jubilee celebration.

The speaker said that visitors in London from France and Russia had expressed great surprise that such an event as the Silver Jubilee celebration could take place without harm to any of the principals attending it, and one of the Londoners had replied, "Why you wouldn't hurt your father or mother, would you?" Such was the feeling of the British people towards their Majesties.

These and many other impressions and experiences were cited by Mrs. Sampson, who gave a wonderful insight into the England of today and the spirit pervading the country.

Previous to Mrs. Sampson's address, a short business meeting was held, when reports of the Rose Day and Heather Day were presented. The members expressed thanks to all who had assisted on Heather Day, especially to W. Jennings & Son for the use of their store for headquarters during the day, and to Mrs. Boorman for making the wreath, which was placed on the War Memorial by Mrs. T. B. Monk.

The educational secretary's report was read, and two letters of thanks were received, one from Atchafal and one from Muralde, B.C., acknowledging Jubilee numbers of The

Royal Engagement Ring Is Selected

LONDON, Sept. 5 (P)—The Duke of Gloucester, third son of the King today visited a jewelry store and bought an engagement ring for Lady Alice Monagu-Douglas-Scott, to whom his betrothal was announced a week ago today.

He bought a platinum ring set with a solitaire sapphire with a diamond on each side.

Miss Joyce Wethered, British golf champion, reached Victoria yesterday to play the second match over a stockbroker. It is an intelligent Club course, Oak Bay, this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Her first was at Toronto at the beginning of July of this year. She was interviewed yesterday, soon after her arrival, in the garden at the Empress Hotel, where she is staying.

What's she like, this Joyce Wethered, whose very name is synonymous with the word golf? This veteran of a thousand hard-won contests, who at Bobby Jones put "Plays golf like a man—only better?"

In her very early thirties, she is five feet ten inches tall and attractively slender. Her eyes are bright, intelligently spaced and hazel. Her hair prematurely grey. A generous mouth discloses very white teeth. Her voice is charming.

NEVER WENT TO SCHOOL

Born and brought up at Tigbourne Court, Witney, near Guildford, Surrey, Joyce Wethered is the product of the English countryside and gentle breeding. She never went to school. Her education was home-taught, and she is a self-made woman. She has played golf since she was eight, but frankly admits she was never "a bit good" until she was seventeen. Her father is an artist. Primarily a portrait painter, he became an experimentalist.

PATRON OF THE ARTS

But apart from golf, Miss Wethered is a patron of the arts, loves music and enjoys the theatre. Since last May, when she left England, she has played half a hundred courses in Eastern America and California and fallen in love with Pebble Beach. And her far-off perfection, discuss form and mashie-shets and all the other closed ritual of the golf world with her.

There the outstandingly golf mad of the world "drop in," and among surroundings incitingly alluring to their persuasion, discuss form and mashie-shets and all the other closed ritual of the golf world with her.

They were met at the boat by Mayor David Leeming and Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, who accompanied them to the hotel for luncheon.

STORMY LOVE

A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE

CHAPTER XXXIV

Val laughed when he spoke of Maurice Cordray's sudden interest in his rudder. It appeared Cordray had got wind of his experiments when Val had first started to work on the old rig, but it was only recently the plane builder's curiosity had turned into a persistent questioning. "Cordray's cruiser is plenty speedy you know," he told Jan, "and when I overhauled him last Sunday and passed him as if he were standing still, he was right on my trail to find out how come. Since he owns a shipyard I suppose it is only natural he should be on the lookout for a new idea that appears a winner."

Jan's slim body had stiffened, he saw her eyes veil themselves, but she made no comment. "The chap pestered me until I took him for a trial run," he went on, "and since he has seen what old rig can do with his new type rudder, it's got him on tenterhooks. He's been trying to pry out details, but I haven't got him far. He looked searchingly across at the girl to demand, 'Look here, Jan, why don't you like Cordray? Any definite reasons?'"

"Her cheeks flushed faintly and she glanced away. 'Why I scarcely know him.' She stood up abruptly. 'Come along,' she called, 'our turn to turn off.'"

Playing the second round he was conscious of a feeling of glorious well-being. Perhaps it was the day he revelled in the sunny breeze against his face; it was fine to breathe the salt tang of the foggy air and to feel the coolness of the snow-capped mountains that flanked the bluest of skies. Jan spoke his thoughts when she said, "Isn't it a perfect day? I'm so glad I'm alive. I have all excited. My heart is singing."

"Sweet kid! She had worn a ribbon around her hair like that when she was five. As they strolled along side by side, he glanced down to find her smiling joyously up at him, and as he had done a hundred times before, he slipped his arm through hers. But even as he touched her he saw the redness fade from her smile; before they were veiled, a strange frightened look leaped in her eyes."

Somewhat the magic spell was broken. Unable to understand his own abrupt shifting of mood, he felt suddenly unhappy and nervous. He glanced at his watch and saw to his amazement that it was almost four o'clock. He heard himself murmur politely, "Sorry, Jan, but pitched among the cushions of the divan.

When Sue waved an airy hand and the bearded man rose to answer Val's greeting, Lia sprang to her feet and ran to kiss her husband. She was, he saw with a frown, wearing a Chinese robe of apricot satin, her hair dressed with straight bangs and chignon in the style he detested. "Did you have a nice time with Jan?" she demanded. She held the lapels of his coat and turned to call laughingly to the others. "Admit I am sweet natured, not to mind that Val spends a Saturday afternoon with so charming a friend as Jan. Edging?"

Why, he thought furiously, must something she herself had arranged. With difficulty he stifled his exasperation and loosed her clinging fingers. As he went forward to take Cordray's outstretched hand, Lia cried, "But, Val, you haven't noticed the adorable birthday present?"

The woman smiled in the sly, pitched among the cushions of the divan.

Val was conscious of a feeling of glorious well-being. Perhaps it was the day he revelled in the sunny breeze against his face; it was fine to breathe the salt tang of the foggy air and to feel the coolness of the snow-capped mountains that flanked the bluest of skies. Jan spoke his thoughts when she said, "Isn't it a perfect day? I'm so glad I'm alive. I have all excited. My heart is singing."

pal-eyed way he loathed. "I'll say," she twinkled maliciously. "Wide awake."

He was aware now that voices were coming from the front of the house and he went quickly along the small back passage and came to the living-room door. There he saw that Cordray and Sue Norris lounged in the black satin chairs, while Lia, who looked none the worse for her indisposition, was ents Mr. Cordray has brought me. Look, darling! I am too thrilled!"

Turning, he was suddenly aware of the kitten tucked beneath her elbow, and the wrist she held toward him was circled with a ray rainbow of bracelets. "The kitten is named Silver Lion of Iran and he is purest Persian," Lia told him, her eyes black with excitement. "And don't you simply adore the Venetian bracelets? Can you imagine lovelier presents?"

"Very nice," Val murmured politely. But how, he wondered, had Cordray known it was Lia's birthday?

At her graceful gesture the bracelets tinkled musically, and Cordray reached out to take the small, turtling hand in his. "I chose these," he said, his voice mellifluous, "because Messer Marco Polo might have carried just such gifts to the little princess in distant Cathay."

Sue's annoyed brown eyes sought the ceiling. "My sainted aunt!" she murmured throatily. "Will the marines never come?"

The big man's cold glance flicked to where Sue was lounging among the cushions, her beautiful legs frankly displayed. She looked very pretty. Val thought, in a green linen suit and little mesh cap pulled over the bronze waves of her hair, but her heavy-lidded eyes rested sullenly on Cordray as he leaned over Lia.

"Each of these bracelets," the man was saying, "represents an ancient design of the Venetian glass guilds. This one," still holding her wrist he indicated the pattern, "stimulates madrepore coral. The starry mosaic on the blue ground is called millefiori—a thousand flowers. This one imitates the pulp of an orange. That is vitro, de trina. The finest of all is this latter—"

As the mellow voice flowed on, Val put out a gingerly finger to tickle the kitten's ear. Blank yellow eyes stared back at him. He was fond of animal, but it was difficult to warm to this one, which was certain to put a quietus on the Irish terrier pup he had set his heart on owning. With a sigh he relinquished this treasured hope, then crossed to make a casual conversation with Sue, behind whose somnolent manner he sensed a brewing storm.

She conversed calmly enough, but Val followed her smouldering gaze and himself studied the bearded man. The chap certainly had a swell falter, he thought. He eyed the plane-builder's well-cut Oxford grey flannels and reflected wistfully that it had been a long time since Val had been able to indulge his own good taste in clothes.

As always, when he came right down to it, he found it difficult to be critical with this man, who seemed so good an egg. Cordray had a firm handshake, he looked you straight in the eye, and certainly he had exerted himself to be friendly. Today, for instance, it had been thoughtful of him to bring these things to the youngsters. The youngster was awfully pleased. She smiled up into Cordray's face, and he heard her say:

"You are just the sweetest person to make this such a beautiful birthday. Then she turned suddenly to call to Val. 'Mr. Cordray wants us to dine with him tonight. Dear, Brad and Sue are invited, and the Brownes and Fields are coming from Seattle with their crowd. It's to be a lovely party in my honor, Val. Aren't you pleased? I've vegetated so long, I'm terribly thrilled.'"

(To Be Continued)

A small piece, three-and-a-half-years old, often adds an originality to her evening prayer. After a bedtime story, giving a moral on perseverance, she knelt down to say her usual prayer. "Oblí bless Mummy, Daddy, etc. Please make Wanda a good girl, and if at first you don't succeed, please try again."

RAISE SALARIES AT LADYSMITH

Adjustments Made by School Trustees—New Appointment to Staff

LADYSMITH, Sept. 5.—With repairs to foundations and fire escapes and the installation of new drinking fountains, the schools were in readiness for the opening. It was reported at the regular meeting of the board of school trustees.

The sum of $425 is available for dental treatment for the pupils at school without cost of the legal fees. It was stated, as local donations and department grants had taken care of the necessary outlay.

Mrs. Dorothy Meredith, of Vancouver, was appointed to the teaching staff as instructress in the new course of home economics. This course will be limited to the sewing, dressmaking and designing aspects of domestic science, as the cooking angle in the light of a previous experience, was regarded with general disfavor.

Four new sewing machines were purchased as an integral part of the equipment necessary, with the department assuming 50 per cent of the cost.

Minor salary adjustments were made and the teachers of Grades III and IV were given an increase of $450 per month, while one of the high school staff will receive $10 more a month.

There are twenty-two pupils, including ten for Grades XI and XII, attending school from outside points, with a likelihood that several more will be enrolled shortly.

An invitation from the Parent-Teachers' Association to attend a social evening was accepted by the trustees, and Chairman W. C. Duncan, of the board, will be asked to address the members at the gathering on a current educational topic.

FAIR TO HAVE NEW FEATURES

Full List of Attractions Provided for Coming Exhibition at Duncan

DUNCAN, Sept. 5.—The sixty-eighth Annual Cowichan Fall Fair, which will be held here September 13 and 14, promises to be more attractive than ever this year. Besides the full list of attractions, several new features have been introduced. The official opening will take place at 2 p.m. Friday. Lieut.-Col. H. D. McLaughlin, president of the Cowichan Agricultural Society, officiating.

Friday's gymkhana should prove more interesting than usual, as some good jumpers have been developed and interest in horses generally in the district continues to grow. A new departure will be the exhibition of folk dancing by school children and the carnival features which are being sponsored by the Duncan Elks. Some interesting entries have been received for the Highland dancing and quadrille competitions, which are being held Saturday afternoon. The loggers' sports, which always draw a crowd, and the tug-of-war, all carrying good cash prizes, should provide plenty of keen competition.

The list of judges for the fair include Dr. M. Sparrow, Vancouver, for horses; W. Hunter, of Vernon, cattle; K. Harrap, Victoria, sheep; E. W. White, Victoria, field and garden produce and fruit; D. Robinson, of Royal Oak, flowers; Mrs. V. Selrup and Mrs. E. H. Peterson, domestic science; W. Hagger, Victoria, dairy produce and honey; Mrs. J. D. Gordon, Victoria, ladies' work; Mrs. P. Stanhope, children's section; Mrs. Smith Hoole, Vancouver, art, and H. Tyack, of Victoria, photography.

MALAHAT BRANCH OF LEGION MEETS

SHAWNIGAN LAKE, Sept. 5.—The regular session of the members of the Malahat branch of the Canadian Legion showed their customary enthusiasm by an excellent attendance. The president, J. B. Bell, occupied the chair. Two new members were initiated. Subsequent to the transference of the Malahat branch from the Island district to the Victoria district, comrades J. Bell, W. Fish and H. Wolfe were appointed delegates to the Victoria District Council. Arrangements were started for the 1935 poppy campaign. Last year's committee, with the addition of Comrade W. Fish, will be in charge of the purchase of the poppies and their distribution to the various centres. Excerpts were read from the report of the recent convention at Kamloops. The next meeting will be held at Cobble Hill.

"France has long been the centre of feminine fashions," says a writer. As far back as the time of the Trojan Wars, Helen of Troy got her goods from Paris.

THERE IS BUSINESS, TOO, FOR YOU IN SOUTH AFRICA

YOU can combine a winter holiday in sunny South Africa, the glamorous land of gold and diamonds, with business that may justify the cost. You can see those world-wonder sights; Victoria Falls, the Congo Caves, the ruins of Zimbabwe, the eight thousand square miles of Kruger National Park, the world's largest game reserve. You can forget business for a bit on the silver sands of colourful Durban; see picturesque native life and acrobatics next door to civilized comfort. Sport, pleasure, romance, and business are there. Good roads, good hotels, good trains—and a good welcome from a sister Dominion in the British Empire.

Business is good in South Africa—the depression is well over. The Union bought over twelve million dollars' worth of Canadian-made products in 1934; there is a market for more. Favourable tariffs offer Canadians a real opportunity to buy and sell in this profitable land.

Remember, summer is approaching in South Africa—with an equable temperature and plenty of kindly sun. There are 300 first-class golf courses in the Union. Good ships take you there, from Montreal, Vancouver or New York. For literature write to:—

Peter Finds the Home of Longlegs

Peter Rabbit watched Rattles the Kingfisher until the latter grew tired of fishing and flew away down the Laughing Brook. This reminded Peter that he had once found the home of Rattles in a gravelly bank and he promptly decided he would look for it again. So Peter scampered along the bank of the Laughing Brook without stopping to think that in that direction there were no high gravelly banks because the Laughing Brook was flowing through the Green Meadows and the Green Meadows were low.

At last Peter reached the place where the Laughing Brook enters the Big River. Of course he hadn't found the home of Rattles. But now he did find something that for the time being made him forget Rattles and his home. Just before it reaches the Big River the Laughing Brook winds through a swamp in which are many tall trees and a great number of young trees. Many big ferns grow there and are splendid to hide under. Peter always did like that swamp.

He had stopped to rest in a clump of ferns when he was startled by seeing a great bird alight in a tree. Just a little way from him. His first thought was that it was a Hawk so you can guess how surprised and pleased he was to recognize Mrs. Longlegs. Somehow Peter had always thought of the Herons as always alighting on the ground. But here was Mrs. Longlegs in a tree. Having nothing to fear, Peter crept out from his hiding place that he might see better. In the tree in which Mrs. Longlegs was perched and just below her be known? And as there was no one but Mrs. Longlegs to talk to, he presently made up his mind that being so near the Big River he would run over there to see if Plunger the Osprey was fishing there.

"I hear that your son is making a noise in the world of science," said the Visitor.

"Oh, that's only his theories being exploded," replied the disillusioned parent.

Peter sat around for a while, but as he didn't care to let his presence be known, he didn't care to let his presence be known.

Of the late Bishop Ames, the following anecdote is told: While presiding over a certain conference in the West, a member began a tirade against universities and education, thanking God that he had never been corrupted by contact with a college. After a few minutes, the bishop interrupted with the question, "Do I understand that the brother thanks God for his ignorance?"

"Yes," was the answer, "you can put it that way if you want to."

"Well," said the bishop, "all I have to say is that the brother has a good deal to thank God for."

MUSICAL COMEDY IS AT DOMINION

"Every Night at Eight" Co-Stars Alice Faye, Frances Langford and Patsy Kelly

Work, it has been said, makes Jack a dull boy, but it has proved to be one formula for success in Hollywood.

Alice Faye, Frances Langford, international radio star, and Patsy Kelly, currently featured with George Raft in Paramount's "Every Night at Eight," now showing at the Dominion Theatre, are three successful girls who will tell you that film players have little time for party life. They'll also tell you that film workers labor while the world sleeps.

The girls, appearing as a "sister singing trio" in the film, were instructed to attain as much proficiency as "The Boswell Sisters." Under the direction of Paul Mervin, accompanist, the girls practised three hours a night for ninety nights, making a total of 297 hours of constant warbling. All was in addition to their regular daily labors.

"Every Night at Eight" is the screen's first presentation of the amateur radio hour, popular program on the air today. The story tells of the adventures which befell a group of young hopefuls when they rise from dismal failure on their first amateur contest hour to the nation's leading radio favorites.

PLAYHOUSE All of the settings, the psychological love drama starring Claudette Colbert, now at the Playhouse Theatre, were designed by the man who has been Greta Garbo's setting designer for the past nine years. He is Alexander Toluboff, who was art director at the Metro studios on all of Greta Garbo's pictures, and who was recently signed by Producer Walter Wanger to work on "Private Worlds."

Royal Oak Park Gardens Are Now At Their Finest

One of the finest gardens in Saanich is to be found at the Royal Oak Park. The flowers are now at their best and the well-kept and watered green-lawns present a marked contrast to the brown fields nearby.

John Wilkinson, superintendent, has put much effort into his work, and now extends a general invitation to view the results.

On every hand are to be seen beautiful beds of blue asters and marigolds, wonderful displays of stocks and snapdragons, colorful fallas, petunias, and alysium in the front rows, while towering above and behind are cornes, mallus, dahlias and single sunflowers.

IS SENTENCED TO JAIL TERM

Louis Vasherresse Found Guilty of Theft—Sloan Is Dismissed

Louis Vasherresse will have to spend ten days in jail, having been found guilty of stealing a parcel containing groceries, etc., belonging to C. E. Oliver. A charge against David Sloan of having stolen goods in his possession in connection with the same transaction, was dismissed.

When the case was first launched the two accused were charged jointly with having stolen the goods. Yesterday morning before proceeding with the hearing of the case, C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, asked leave in the city police court, to amend so that Vasherresse would be charged with theft and Sloan with possession of stolen goods.

The evidence against Vasherresse was that he had had a drink of beer in a local club with Mr. Oliver and the latter had handed him a paper bag with some canned goods, eggs, etc., in it and asked him to hold it until he returned. Mr. Oliver went out of the room.

TOOK GOODS AWAY
When he returned, the accused had gone. The evidence of Vasherresse was that he went outside to see if he could locate Mr. Oliver. He met Sloan, but when he saw an old acquaintance from Vancouver across the street, he gave the parcel to Sloan to hold while he greeted his friend.

When Mr. Oliver did not appear the two, Vasherresse and Sloan, took a taxi home. They asked the driver not to drop them in front of the home of Vasherresse because it was thought the wife would object to their having taken a taxi home.

In the meantime Detective H. F. Jarvis had been advised of the disappearance of the goods and was seeking the accused. He located the two in the taxi, where the driver had stopped to let them out. The goods were in their possession.

A. J. Patton appeared for the accused and argued that there was no intent to steal, but that the goods were simply being held to be returned later to Mr. Oliver.

Current Edition Of Colonist News Has Fine Scenes

A YOUNG writer who offers himself as subject in a startling experiment to revive a person frozen to death is to be seen in the current issue of The Colonist-Universal News-reel, now showing at the Dominion Theatre.

Stephen Simekovich, the writer, volunteers to Dr. Ralph Willard, of Los Angeles, following the doctor's success in restoring to life a monkey which had been "dead" for several days. The scientist believes that a special process of freezing will make it possible for human beings to be revived after periods of suspended animation in the form of blocks of ice.

Other important events to be seen in the current reel include the concentration of 3000 troops at Pine Camp, N.Y., with masses of artillery and equipment, for the greatest peace-time manoeuvres ever held in the United States, and blazing forest fires sweeping the vicinity of Eagle Creek, Ore., while C.C.C. boys fight feverishly to halt their destructive progress.

Word has been received in the city that Rev. Father Higgins, of New Zealand, will arrive in Victoria on the R.M.S. Niagara tomorrow. This eloquent Roman Catholic clergyman is a great worker in various social organizations in New Zealand, and among other movements with which he is associated is that of the Douglas Social Credit scheme.

The visitor has consented to address a meeting here on this movement. Until his arrival tomorrow it has been impossible to make definite arrangements for the date of the meeting, but on his arrival, the matter will receive the attention of the committee here and the date of the address will be announced.

TO PRESENT PRIZES

Mayor David Leeming will present the prizes to the successful competitors Saturday evening, in front of the grandstand in the house-racing enclosure at the Willows. The presentation will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Mayor Davis, of Port Angeles, official starter of the race, will attend the prize-giving.

Frank and Johnny Albany, Indian youths who spent a night on San Juan Island, and for whom a search was conducted for twenty-four hours last year, will start in tomorrow's event. Albion and Jumbo Davies, who almost completed the distance in their initial effort last year, have again entered. They are being sponsored by George "Joker" Paton. Three other local teams will start the grind in quest of the silverware.

STATION TO BE OPENED TODAY
B.C. Company Starts Business at Douglas and Cormorant Streets

The second Victoria unit of the Standard Stations, Ltd., is now completed and will be officially opened today at the corner of Douglas and Cormorant Streets, opposite the City Hall. This makes two modern gasoline and service stations operated in the city by this British Columbia company.

The same smart design and architecture, which caused such favorable comment at the Yates and Blanshard Streets station, is carried out in the new premises, with the red, white and blue chevrons, emblematic of the Standard Stations, Ltd., throughout the province, prominently displayed.

THREE TYPES SOLD
Here three types of Standard gasoline will be sold from up-to-date pumps which are equipped as to be easily accessible from the street. The broad driveway gives ample room to allow for several cars in the station at one time, with no congestion or inconvenience.

The lubrication department is the subject of special attention, with three types of Standard lubricating oils offered and the latest equipment used to insure thorough greasing and oiling of the engine. In addition to a complete line of automobile accessories, Standard Stations carry both tires and batteries.

Marking the initial day of business from the new station, the management is offering bouquets of flowers for every lady patron and candies for the kiddies.

In order to assure the motorist the highest degree of prompt and efficient service, every attendant must graduate from a special school of instruction maintained by the company. The station staff of the Victoria units now include G. Fanning, D. A. Mackenzie, O. Rustin and R. S. Sutherland.

Remember When
(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

A rare treat, one that has not been equaled here for months, is on the tapis and will be served up to the local fans on Monday. A regular league baseball fixture between Vancouver and Spokane, the leaders in the race for the Northwest League pennant, is the form it will take. These nine, which are playing the fastest ball of any two combinations on the Pacific Coast, will meet on the Royal Athletic Park grounds in one of the most important games of the series, for its result will go a long way towards deciding which club is going to land the pennant for 1935.

In a hot match played before a large crowd, the Victoria lacrosse team defeated New Westminster on Labor Day by a score of seven goals to four. After falling out throughout the middle part of the season, the Capitals came back to their beginning of the season form with startling suddenness, and swept the

PONIES START FOURTEEN-DAY SESSION HERE

Thoroughbreds Will Open Tomorrow Afternoon at Willows Track

With prospects of continued fine weather, local racers are today anxiously awaiting the "official" opening tomorrow afternoon, at the Willows track, of Victoria's 1935 racing season. The opening day of the fourteen-day meet gives promise of being the best in many seasons.

Not since before pre-depression days has the outlook for a successful season been brighter, and for the first time in six years, racing officials are viewing the forthcoming season in an optimistic spirit. They base their opinion on the increased attendance and multi-million play over the Vancouver circuit, and also the fact that the finest horses to come to this city in fifteen years will be available for competition.

RECORDS SHATTERED

Records that stood at Brighouse and Hastings tracks for over twenty-five years, were shattered this morning and the runners who actually accomplished these feats will be seen in action at the Willows track here. Salinas, Standstill and Myron H. each set new marks for various distances during the present season. The latter accomplished his pe "romance at the close of the Hastings Park meet Wednesday afternoon, when he led the way to defeat the famous Goldstrack II. He ran seven furlongs in 1:26 4-5.

Preparations for the opening have been completed. The racing staff is busy this morning taking entries for tomorrow's races, and according to President Judge McKewen, will contain the names of most of the outstanding performers on the Mainland tracks.

The track at the Willows is reported to be lightning fast, and W. J. Meares predicts more than one "new time" record during the first few days of racing. Only a few of the horses remain to be shipped. A large contingent arrived yesterday, and the balance are due this morning and afternoon. The first regatta unloaded in perfect racing condition. Post time for the opening-race tomorrow will be 2:30 o'clock.

Football Meeting

A meeting of Kresges Football Club will be held in the above Douglas Street, this evening at 7:30 o'clock. All players and others interested in the club are requested to attend.

Football Meeting

The annual meeting of the Junior Football League will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in The Colonist board room. All of last year's clubs and teams wishing to enter the league for the 1935-36 season are requested to have delegates present.

JOYCE WETHERED

Of England, greatest woman golfer of the age, who will show for the first time this afternoon at the Oak Bay links, when she pairs up with Joe Pryke, Colwood professional, in an eighteen-hole exhibition match against Marjorie Todd and Phil Taylor, Victoria Club pro. The match will commence at 2:30 o'clock. With good weather holding sway, one of the largest galleries in local history is expected to trek behind the foursome. Miss Wethered has been on an extensive tour of Canada and United States, and has been attracting big crowds to the fairways. She is shown here completing her putting stroke, and the picture on the left shows her famous grip.

IS RE-ELECTED GOLF CAPTAIN

Mrs. H. P. Hodges Returned As Gorge Vale Skipper—
Events Planned

Plans for an active season were made at the annual meeting of the Gorge Vale Golf Club, held at the clubhouse on Wednesday evening.

Miss E. Vidan Wiley, acting secretary, presented the report of the year's activities, showing that a number of competitions and several inter-club matches had been held. Four successful bridge parties had augmented the treasury, enabling the women to purchase linoleum for the floor of the dining-room, to finish the walls and to provide new curtains for the clubhouse.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

Mrs. H. P. Hodges was re-elected captain by acclamation; Mrs. E. Deane Freeman was named secretary, and the following committee members elected: Mrs. H. H. Allen, Mrs. A. T. Hunkin, Miss Lena Harris, Mrs. D. R. Hurdle, Miss L. Newnam, Mrs. D. W. Morry, Mrs. G. Silburn, Miss E. V. Wiley, Miss E. Walker and Miss Jean Torrance.

Play for the Wilkerson Cup, which calls for eighteen-hole two medal rounds, on handicap, will take place tomorrow and Saturday, September 14, and entries should be made without delay to Mrs. Hodges or Mr. Smart.

A six-card electric competition will also be held between September 29 and November 10. On Sunday, September 29, mixed foursomes will be played.

Plans were made to hold monthly bridge parties at the clubhouse during the winter in aid of the funds for the first to be staged on Monday evening, September 30.

Eight Bouts on Mixed Card at Mount Stephen

WITH four boxing and an equal number of wrestling matches billed, another popular mixed (stunts and grappling) programme will be staged by the Mount Stephen Athletic Club this evening at its outdoor stadium, Mount Stephen Avenue. Topping the card will be Wally Edwards, "Cedar Hill Wildcat," and Reg Hopkins, in a five-minute round wrestling match. Three other grappling matches and four glove-throwing bouts will complete the attractive programme. The first mix will start at 8:30 o'clock.

The year ended with a substantial balance in hand.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Angus Campbell for her generous gift of a cup and prizes; also to James Smart, the secretary, for his ever-ready co-operation.

Baseball Played Here for Nearly Three-Quarters of Century

BASEBALL made its bow to the public of Victoria in the Spring of 1863, according to accounts of the game published at the time in The British Colonist. The first record appears on March 30, when a somewhat garbled account of "the new game of baseball or rounders," as played between the Fashion Club and the Victoria Cricketers, is carried. It is evident that the reporter did not understand the niceties of the play, but two days later another game, perhaps better organized, was staged at Beacon Hill Park.

It is interesting to note that the catcher of the Baseball Players was Thomas Pattullo, uncle of Premier Thomas Dufferin Pattullo, and it was probably due to his enthusiasm that the game was introduced to Victoria. Mr. Pattullo was a leading spirit in the activities of the Cariboo country, doing much to open up that rich field of enterprise, and was noted as an athlete. He spent his winter in Victoria, and while awaiting the reopening of the mining district, helped to organize baseball. Those who were active in starting the game were mostly young Canadians, and they challenged the cricketers, who took to the new sport with avidity.

WALLACE AND CARROLL WILL MEET TONIGHT

Vancouver Welterweight to Clash With Ottawa Boy In Title Bout

OTTAWA, Sept. 5 (AP).—Gordon Wallace, the Vancouver hurricane, and Eddie Carroll, Ottawa's hope for a Canadian boxing crown, loafed today in anticipation of their ten-round welterweight title at the Auditorium tomorrow night.

Wallace, the champ who would have fought before the home town folks if it could have been arranged less expensively, was described by Jack Allen, his manager, as ready for a "terrific" defence of his crown.

Both men, after beginning a verbal offensive with startling modesty, warned up as the zero hour approached. Wallace said he expected to win by an early knockout and "I don't believe that Carroll will give me a battle." Carroll declared his belief that the "reign of Wallace is over. I will be the new champion tomorrow night."

BOTH CONFIDENT

Gordon said he would do his best to knock Carroll into twilight sleep in the first three rounds, having a hunch the Ottawa will be trying to do the same thing to him.

Joe Vosmik, American League leader and third man in the Big Six, set the pace for the sextette yesterday when only half the members of the league were in action.

Four hits in seven trips to the plate in a double-header against Boston brought his average up to .350.

Joe Medwick managed to clip a few points between his mark and that of Arky Vaughan, Big Six and National League leader, Vaughan had one of his rare hitless days, dropping three points to .394, while Medwick hit two out of three to pick up two points for a .370 mark.

Terry Moore Ties Up Modern Record With Six Successive Safeties in Cardinals' 15-3 Decision Over Braves—Giants Beaten by Reds—Cubs Continue Fast Pace, Defeat Phils

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 5 (AP).—Young Terry Moore, the rearm who made good, equaled a modern major league batting record today as the world champion Cardinals lambasted the demoralized Boston Braves 15-3 to retain top standing in the National League.

Moore, St. Louis' clouting outfielder, knocked five singles and a double in the Cardinals' nineteenth-inning assault to tie the modern major league record for consecutive safeties in a nine-inning game.

The old record was held by the late Wilbert Robinson, who hit safely on each of seven trips to the plate in a game he played in 1892 on the old Boston Orioles. The modern record has been equaled many times.

CLUB FACE SHOULD OPEN IN BACK-SWING

From the way most players go about controlling the club, you'd think they didn't care where the ball went. They want it to fly true and hope it will go straight, but few do much to bring about these things. One bit of gross negligence occurs just as the club is started back from the ball. The way the club moves through the first six inches of the backswing determines the outcome of the shot as much as any other single thing. Yet there isn't one player in a thousand who knows how his clubhead moves through this initial stage.

Even the experts often become careless about this part of the swing. They do not know whether the clubface opens or closes as it moves away from the ball. It should open, or at least have a tendency to open.

At 7:15 p.m. the following are the results of the clubface test:

FAMOUS ENGLISH WOMAN GOLFER TO PLAY TODAY

Joyce Wethered Will Perform at Oak Bay Course

Greatest Shotmaker of Her Sex to Show for First Time in Victoria, With Joe Pryke as Her Partner, Against Phil Taylor and Marjorie Todd—Match Starts at 2:30 o'Clock

The greatest woman golfer of all time, Joyce Wethered, who was England's standard-bearer in championship play for many years before retiring from tournament campaigning, will show what she can do with a set of clubs this afternoon at the Victoria Golf Club, when she teams with Joe Pryke, Colwood professional, in an eighteen-hole exhibition match against Marjorie Todd, smart young Oak Bay shotmaker, and Phil Taylor, pro at the Victoria Club. The foursome will get away from the first tee at 2:30, and advance information predicts that a large gallery will travel in pursuit.

Miss Wethered arrived in the city yesterday from Seattle and was welcomed by Mayor David Leeming and Mrs. C. E. Wilson, who entertained the famous English star to luncheon at the Empress Hotel. The touring "business woman" golfer was then driven about the city, after which she rested up for today's exhibition. Since opening her tour, the English star has played on numerous courses and has equaled several records, and has always scored in the seventies.

So far on this tour, Miss Wethered played a great round with Bobby Jones, ruler of the fairways for years before he retired from competitive golf. She scored a fine 74 against the "Atlantis Wizard" in the South over a par 71 course, and in doing so lost a one-up verdict, which Jones settled on the final green. In Seattle on Wednesday, Miss Wethered equaled the women's record for the Seattle Golf Club links with a splendid 78, the second time in history such a card has been turned in.

Miss Wethered was born November 17, 1891, and is a member of Royal Dornoch, Worplesdon and West Surrey Clubs. She captured the British women's open crown for the first time in 1922, repeated in 1924 and 1925 and then lifted her fourth title in 1929. She was runner-up in 1921 and was a semi-finalist in 1923. In the British women's closed championship, Miss Wethered came through five successive years from 1920 to 1924. In 1921 Miss Wethered was runner-up in the French championship, and won the Surrey title in 1921, 1922 and 1924, and had the honor of representing England in international matches in 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1925.

In partnership with her brother, Roger, a former British amateur titleholder, she won the London mixed foursome tournament in 1922, and with Cyril Tolley captured the same honors in 1923 and 1927. Miss Wethered has scored two holes-in-one during her career, the tenth at Worplesdon and the seventeenth at Swinley Forest.

GEORGE YOUNG FACES NELSON FOR BIG SUM

Pair to Swim for $2,750 Prize Today—Gambi Says He Will Compete

By ELMER DULMAE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
TORONTO, Sept. 5.—Gianni Gambi, human windmill of the professional swimming elite, will place his flailing arms out of Lake Ontario tomorrow afternoon when the tremendous Marvin Nelson, Port Dodge, Ia., and the flabby George Young, Toronto, do some dueling over five miles for $2,750.

Official five-mile champion of the world, Gambi found his title to be without eloquence today when he made a final fling for place in the water beside Nelson and Young. He was barred from any part of that $2,750. Also he was told that the part of Lake Ontario stretching along the Canadian National Exhibition waterfront was closed to him.

GAMBI DETERMINED
"I will beat these fellows for money, or I will beat them for nothing." That was the Gambi slogan. "I'll swim," Nelson and Young raised dampened eyebrows. They would have none of Gambi tomorrow night. General Manager Elwood Hughes, of the C.N.E., decided that if the matched pair wouldn't have Gambi in the water, neither would he.

"This water is free. I will get in and swim down with Nelson and Young. They can't stop me, can they? I'll beat them both and then what will the C.N.E. do? I will make a laughing stock of this race."

So said Signor Gambi. And the swimming spectators prepared to get down to the waterfront in numbers for what promised to be something new. A champion who would swim five miles for nothing—that was something. But it seems Gambi won't have to swim five miles.

TOLL OF FLORIDA STORM INCREASES

CHARGES CARELESSNESS
Governor Dave Sholtz, en route to the Keys storm area, said "great carelessness somewhere" was responsible for the tragedy.

Harry L. Hopkins, Federal relief administrator in Washington, asserted in reply to demands for an investigation of failure to evacuate the war veterans ahead of the devastating hurricane.

"I think it was a terrible and a shocking disaster. But I don't think from reading those weather reports—which I've been reading—that anybody would necessarily have evacuated those people."

AMPLE NOTICE GIVEN
Prior to this, Charles C. Clark, acting chief of the Weather Bureau at Washington, said that "from our advisories and forecasts, apparently ample notice was given of the danger and approach of this hurricane."

Before the Red Cross report on the casualties, it is estimated that the death toll might reach 1,000 was made to Governor Sholtz by W. P. Mooty, of Miami, his personal representative in the storm area. This was characterized as "absurdity" by L. K. Thompson, Red Cross disaster relief chairman in the section, who estimated the dead at between 270 and 300.

M. E. Gilford, director of the Florida emergency relief administration at Key West, gave his opinion that 400 veterans were killed in the storm.

DESTRUCTION IS GREAT
"Loss of civilians throughout the country and property damage is great," Gilford said in a radio dispatch to the mainland.

A report to Pan-American Airways from Wray Gillette, operator of its emergency short-wave radio set in the storm-stricken Keys, said late today it was believed the total deaths in the region would reach 700.

Evacuation of all injured, homeless and destitute from the storm-stricken Keys continued at a slow pace tonight as flooded congested and washed-out highways hampered removal operations.

MAY ESTABLISH MINIMUM PRICE

Expect Announcement Today of Wheat Board's Recommendation to Government

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—Establishment of a fixed minimum price for wheat, on the recommendation of the Canadian Wheat Board, may be announced tomorrow, it was learned following a brief session of the Cabinet Council late today. No official statement was issued, but it was understood this and other matters had been up for consideration and that agreement had been practically reached as to the wheat question.

Prime Minister Bennett is also expected to make public shortly the progress achieved in negotiations with the United States for a reciprocal trade treaty.

Woman high-jumping champion of the province of Wurtemberg, and who had a fair chance to "make" the German Olympic team, who was excluded from the German field sports championships held several days ago. These games were the most important contests in preparation for the Olympics. However, it was believed that the German Olympics committee has technically escaped, violating its promise that Jews would have an equal opportunity to make the German Olympic team. It was explained that, as a Jew, Miss Bergmann could not belong to the German Light Athletic Association which put on the championships. Thus she could not compete in them.

Shooting Season Opens Tomorrow With Pigeons

Birds Reported Plentiful in Suburban Districts—Blue Grouse and Deer Become Lawful Game One Week Later—Trophy at Stake

Reports emanating from Saanich, Metochin and Sooke districts on the eve of the open season for band-tail pigeons, which become lawful game tomorrow, state that birds are fairly plentiful according to Major Roger Montleith, president of the Victoria and District Fish and Game Association. The season lasts for approximately six weeks, opening tomorrow and ending on October 20.

While sportsmen generally are expected to take this opportunity of getting their guns in shape for the opening of the deer and blue grouse seasons on September 14, band-tail pigeons are not extensively hunted. Fond of peas and corn, the birds are usually found in large numbers in the suburban areas adjacent to the city. They are not a very good table bird, and this, more than anything else, is the reason why sportsmen do not go in search of them in large numbers.

Trio of Cricket Fixtures Carded On Local Fields

In the only league cricket match scheduled tomorrow, Cowichan cricketers will visit the city to play the Victoria Cricket Club eleven at MacDonald Park. Two friendly matches, which will bring together the Albions and the Five Cs at Beacon Hill, and the University School Inc. and the Victoria second eleven at Mount Tolmie, will round out the programme. All fixtures will commence at 2:15 o'clock. The Albions team will be as follows: Smith, Gibbons, E. D. Freeman, Walton, Pitt, Pat Freeman, D. Pile, Enoch (captain), Hogarth, Barclay, Swan and Wilkinson.

Extra Preliminary Rounds of English Cup Set Tomorrow

Entries of Many Minor Clubs Force Officials to Start Competition Earlier Than Usual—Teams Still Experimenting With Players—Scottish League Matches Are Important

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Although the football season in England is only a week old, many league clubs are unable to announce teams for Saturday's matches owing to the large number of injuries suffered in the heavy mid-week programme. All the eighty-eight clubs comprising the four divisions of the league have two games under their belts.

The growing interest in the English Cup competition, won last season by Sheffield Wednesday, is illustrated by the fact that owing to the large number of entries many minor clubs will begin the long trek to Wembley by playing in the extra preliminary rounds starting Saturday.

Numerous league clubs are still experimenting in an effort to find their best combinations for attack and defence. Everton welcomes the return of W. Cook, scoring defender who broke a leg last season.

Hamilton Golfer Lifts Canadian Seniors' Crown

TORONTO, Sept. 5.—W. I. Hogg, of the Hamilton Golf Club, posted a 78 for the second eighteen holes today and won the Canadian Seniors' Golf Association championship on his first bid for the title.

Hogg's two-day total of 161 for the thirty-six holes of medal play placed him seven strokes ahead of J. L. M. Thomson, of Nikawa, Winnipeg, second with scores of 81-87.

Hogg had 83 for his first round.

D. C. Grant, of Montreal, came in with an 84 to take third place. He had a thirty-six-hole score of 169.

Good Fishing at Campbell River

CAMPBELL RIVER, Sept. 5.—Many fine salmon have been caught here during the past week. Heading the list is the sixty-two-pound tyee landed by Mrs. Austin, of New York. Mrs. Arnold, of Seattle, hooked a forty-eight-pounder, while Mrs. McElin caught two salmon weighing forty and thirty-nine pounds, respectively. Many other good catches have been reported.

Mrs. J. Macfarlane and Mrs. David Spencer finished on top of their respective classes yesterday in the women's monthly medal competition at the Royal Colwood Golf Club. The former took "A" Class with a card of 92-13-79, and the latter emerged victorious in "B" Class with a score of 109-24-85.

SAANICH INDIAN GAINS MAT DRAW

VANCOUVER, Sept. 5.—Andre Adoree, Montreal's wrestling Frenchman, met more than his match tonight on the main bout of a mat card here, when he was defeated by Vincent Lopez, of Mexico City.

Adoree weighed 215 pounds, and Lopez, 222.

In the very first round the Montrealer ran into trouble. Before the round was well started Lopez had picked the husky Frenchman up over his head and gained the first fall with a body slam. Andre still felt the effects of the fall and could not come out for the second round, conceding the deciding fall to Lopez.

Joe Parelli, 175, Italy, and Chief Thunderbird, 185, of Saanich, Vancouver Island, went six rounds to a draw in the semi-final. The Italian took the first fall with a body slam in the fourth round, but the Indian came in strong in the final session to gain the tying fall with a body press and slam.

Gene LaBelle, 165, Montreal, and Ernie Arthur, 160, Trail, went four fast rounds to a no-fall draw in another event.

FLIGHT...by W. D. TIPTON and J. H. MASON

IN NEW YORK THEY RECEIVED A TREMENDOUS OVATION AND THEN FLEW TO DALLAS, TEXAS, TO WIN A $25,000 PRIZE OFFERED FOR A FLIGHT FROM PARIS TO DALLAS.

BY reason of the westerly winds which prevail over the North Atlantic, the east-to-west crossing has always been regarded as the most difficult. Navigation on this crossing must also be accurate, for should the navigator guide his pilot too far to the left he will miss the American coast completely.

On the west-east crossing a pilot simply cannot miss land, as his course lies perpendicular to the general European coastline. Approaching the U.S.A., however, the course across the North Atlantic almost parallels the coast line and a slight error in navigation would be disastrous.

Coste and Belonte were the first to make a clean cut return of Lindbergh's flight. Nungesser and Goll before them were lost at sea. The German plane piloted by Captain Hermann Koehl fell short of its goal and landed in Labrador. Other British and German attempts failed. Even the renowned Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith failed to reach New York when he brought his famed Southern Cross over the Atlantic.

Coste and Bellonte, despite adverse weather and head winds, brought their plane, the Question Mark, through from Paris in thirty-seven hours and eighteen minutes, just about four hours more than Lindbergh took to make the crossing in the opposite direction.

THE TUTTS... By Crawford Young

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

TO BE IN ONE'S BLACK BOOKS "Huey Long" wrote an editor, "is in the black books of the administration."

To be in anybody's black books is to be in bad standing with them, in disgrace, perhaps, to be on unfriendly, if not inimical terms.

This interesting metaphor has been in use for about half-a-thousand years. Its recorded appearance dating back to the sixteenth century, early in which it originated.

The allusion is alleged to be to the practice prevailing at that time of keeping a record of offenders against the law together with their offences in a black book, those in it being in disfavor with the authorities.

A country judge in North Carolina telephoned to a newly-appointed patrolman that two Negroes were driving on a certain road with great recklessness, that they were obviously drunk, and that they were "potential murderers." The patrolman hastened to do his duty and in the excitement of the chase he shot one of the delinquents dead.

A little later a friend said to him: "Bill, why did you kill that fellow? He was only a traffic offender." "I know that now," replied the new officer, "but I didn't stop to look the word up—I thought 'potential' was just highbrow for 'damned'."
